Mean little smarty-pants in "THE GAMMA PEOPLE" Source: The Movivng Picture Boy

The Moving Picture Boy entry:

"There was something splendidly snide and haughty about Michael Caridia even at twelve, in his early appearances on TV. He was the son of wealthy parents (his father something important in the car trade) and clearly knew his worth.

He excelled in spiteful parts, and in "THE GAMMA PEOPLE" was an enthusiastic member of a totalitarian youth movement, almost a mini-Hitler. In "UP IN THE WORLD", with Norman Wisdom, he plays the sadistic little Sir Reginald, given to playing cruel practical jokes on the staff. (Happily, he gets slightly duffed up himself.)

Carida went on acting into his late teens, with some fine performances on TV and the London stage."
