In A Broth of a Boy

The Moving Picture Boy entry:

“Edison’s homely comic kid, overlapping with Yale Boss and then taking over from him, established his renown through the series of twelve one-reelers, “THE ADVENTURES OF ANDY”. After five years of intense and popular activity Andy Clark took a rest. But later he returned to the screen, playing a jockey in two films of the mid-Twenties, and was seen again in 1930 in “HIT THE DECK”. He also became an assistant director.”
