The Moving Picture Boy entry:

"Allan, a pudgier American version of Roddy McDowall, was signed up for the lead in "JOHNNY HOLIDAY", and given a contract with United Artists, after touring in a play with the Lunts.

"JOHNNY HOLIDAY" was a traditional moral tale. Landing in a reformatory of the open-air, agricultural type, our hero was pulled one way by the vicious delinquent Stanley Clements, the other by the rough-hewn but saintly over-seer William Bendix. An uneven contest, of course."
