Speelfilm Encyclopedie review:

"Little Baby Peggy conquers the heart of a rough sea-dog, Sentimental film which was remade in 1936 as a talkie with Shirley Temple in the touching role. ** "

NFT Bulletin review:

"Baby Peggy" was the little girl counterpart of Jackie Coogan's Kid, and hardly less splendid.

If she hadn't the shameless twinkle of Temple, her half puppyish, half grande dame-ish personality is still wonderfully fetching. In "CAPTAIN JANUARY", she is saved from drowning by an old lighthouse-keeper (Hobart Bosworth) and makes her home with him. Perfectly happy in the lighthouse with the old man, a dog and a skittish pelican, she resists the efforts of do-gooders and one notable do-bad-er (Harry T Morey) to send her to school."
