

Der Gruene Heinrich

("Green Henry")

Germany : 1994 : dir.

: 110 min

prod: : scr: : dir.ph.:

.....
Dominique Sanda; Mathias Gnadinger; Andreas Schmid; Anna Scheschonk;
Thibault de Montalembert; Florence Darel; Assumpta Serna

Ref:	Pages	Sources	Stills	Words	Ω	8	≠	M	☺	Copy on VHS	Last Viewed
5991	1.5	1	3	347	-	3	-	-	-	No	unseen

These are the only stills from the film so far discovered. The Movieboys website made an intense – not to say feverish – study of such fragments from world cinema, but drew our attention to many obscure titles of interest.

CVMC video retail/rental website review:

“Well, my German isn't so hot, and, unfortunately, this is all this title is to presently be found in. Yet let me give you the synopsis I've thus far come up with: Henry and Anna have been in love since childhood, but shortly after the death of Henry's father, Anna moves. Many years later, they once more run into each other, rekindle their passion, yet not without a few complications standing in the way. The first thirty minutes or so are dedicated to the childhood years and are pretty easy to follow; the young Henry and Anna, both about ten years of age, do fine jobs and are rather convincing (at least from what one can judge via their postures and tones) as little lovers.

The rest of the movie is lushly photographed and appears quite good; trouble is, for those of us not so fluent in German, it is a bit hard to follow.

Rated NR: adult themes [sic]; sexual themes; violence; sexual scenes; moderate nudity

Language: German

Categories: Boy Films, Little to Preteen, Drama, First Love, Girl Films, Little to Preteen.”

[no listing in "Leonard Maltin's Movie and Video Guide 2001", "The Critics' Film Guide" or "TV Times Film & Video Guide 1995"]

Toro toro?

Source: Movieboys website

No further information currently available. File it under lifelong romance then, for the time being. The boy pictured, though probably Mathias Gnadinger, is unidentified.

See subject index under BOY MEETS GIRL and CHILDHOOD PROLOGUES.