The British Film Catalogue 1895-1985
listing:

“Comedy. Precocious child [sic] hypnotises people.”

[no listing in "Classics of the Silent Screen", "A Pictorial History of the Silent Screen", "Silent Movies: A Picture Quiz Book", "Halliwell's Film Guide", "Leonard Maltin's Movie and Video Guide 2001", "The Critics' Film Guide", "The Good Film and Video Guide", "Movies on TV and Videocassette 1988-89", "Rating the Movies (1990)", "Speelfilm Encyclopedie", "The Sunday Times Guide to Movies on Television", "The Time Out Film Guide", "TV Times Film & Video Guide 1995", "Variety Movie Guide 1993", "Video Movie Guide 1993" or "The Virgin Film Guide"]

No further information currently available. Can a child get away with doing anything out of the ordinary without the word “precocious” being slapped on them? It would seem not. As this is described as a comedy, it was presumably not a filmed stage act of the day, but a spot of parlour hocus-pocus.

See subject index under MAGIC / MAGICIANS / CONJURORS for other kids with a sorcery bent, and under COMEDY and SILENT CINEMA.
