

Stills index

The Asher Archive resources include a modest collection of original front-of-house glossies, press packs, exploitation folders, souvenir brochures and similar material. Acquisition funds are severely limited, however, so the bulk of the images listed here will have been scanned in from the archive's book collection, film periodicals, TV guides, press reviews, or else have been downloaded from various film and TV related websites. Refer to the subject index under SOURCES for details of these.

The objective being to accumulate as comprehensive a library of visual material as possible, the quality of scans, video grabs and other downloaded images will vary considerably, dependent on the quality of the original source material. A poor definition image is still better than none at all. Where sources are known, these will be credited in all archive entries where the stills are used.

Images are stored under FILM, TV, BIOGRAPHICAL BOYS, BIOGRAPHICAL GIRLS and SUNDRY. For convenience of browsing, many of the stills will be found both under their FILM title and under the BOYS or GIRLS depicted. Consequently the more popular child actors will have 100-plus stills in their biographical section. In addition, however, there may be general publicity shots, fan magazine poses, off-camera shots and even domestic snaps, none of which will be found in the FILM or TV sections. By the same token, many stills of unidentified child actors, or documentary material, will be found only in the film or TV sections. Duplication is not universal. The archive is far more than a simple photo gallery of children, and any still from a relevant title will be included, whether it features children or not. Each actor or actress is cross-indexed below under the films or TV programmes for which shots are currently held. In no sense do the titles listed here constitute a complete filmography of the more prolific child actors.

Archive jpegs are assigned long file names containing the full film or programme title where practicable, (although Mac OS9 and MSWord X for Mac imposes restrictions on file-name length not applicable to Windows 95 and later editions). Stills are scanned 100% image size at 300dpi, and then the image size (not quality) reduced proportionately to make the jpeg no larger than 1mb when launched. This does consume more drive space, and may present problems for computers with RAM limitations, but the aim has been to preserve the best quality of image rather than to make the files web compatible. All material scanned in by the archive itself carries the file identifier xa (eg: HomeAlone2_07xa.jpg). Images downloaded from the internet will refer to the source site where known (eg: AuRevoirlesEnfants12so.jpg would have originated at star oasis.com.) Other primary web sources have included:

Thousands of websites have been, and are being, perused for relevant material, so the above is a very short list of the more significant ones. See the document SOURCES – WEBSITES for a fuller annotated list.

How the stills are organised:

Each main directory is sorted alphabetically – in the case of boys and girls, by surname, in the case of films and TV programmes, by their original title (not an English equivalent). The usual convention of disregarding pronouns (the, an, a) is carried over to non-English titles (le, la, un, de, het, il, el, etc). “LE BALLON ROUGE” will therefore be found under “B”, for Ballon, and not under “L” for Le or “R” for “Red Balloon”. Where ten or more stills exist for a particular actor, film or TV programme, these are stored in separate sub-directories, with some attempt to arrange them in a logical sequence. In the boys and girls sections, stills are arranged roughly in age order, with studio portraits, press photos, off-set shots and domestic snaps organised first, followed by stills from the actor’s films in the order they were made. One or two adult shots have usually been included, where available, for comparison with the childhood ones, but stills beyond the age of 18 will normally be considered outside the scope of this archive.

Sundry items:

For general interest, additional stills are stored here under the following headings -

- Celebrities as children
- Stars with their own children
- Famous children’s authors
- Notable directors who have worked with children
- Victorian photo’s of street children
- Rank Children’s Cinema Clubs events
- Most relevant source books in the archive
- Selected childhood stills from the Hulton Stills Archive (which numbers many thousands)

Paranoia check:

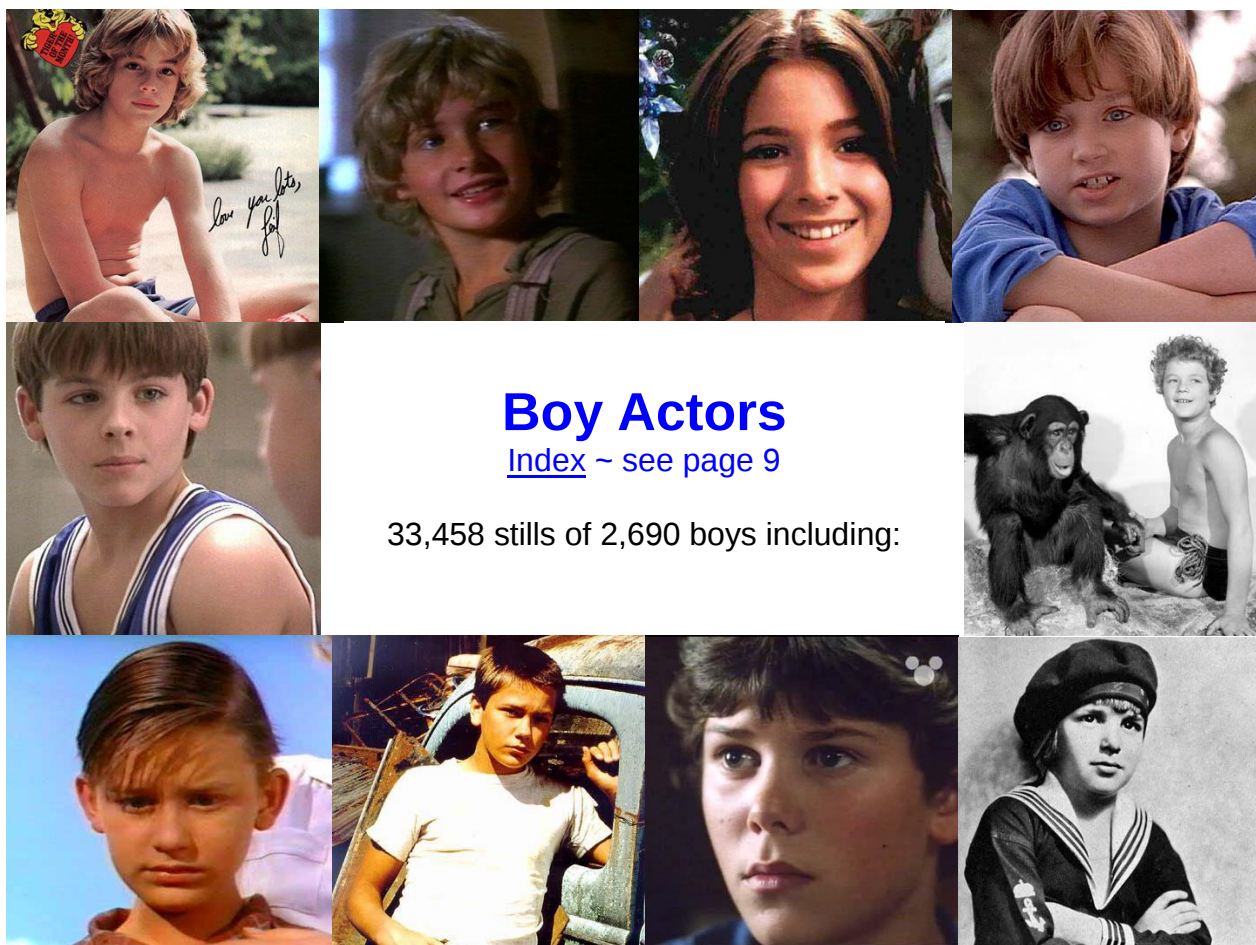

Naturally, the archive does contain a small number of nude stills – in a library of 100,000-plus images it would be very surprising if it did not. However, these are all shots from commercial films and broadcast TV material, many scanned in from film books and periodicals. To exclude them from this database would be a concession to the current atmosphere of moral panic surrounding child nudity, a prudery which is, in my own view, of a particularly unhealthy, reactionary vein. These fragments from world cinema are a reminder to us of society’s fluctuating values on nudity itself, and on the depiction of childhood per se. It is an index of the prevailing paranoia that one has to mention the matter at all. The archive has no interest in pornography, and none will be found here.

Copyright:

The images collected here, from whatever source, remain copyright protected material. Commercial film producers and distributors release promotional stills for “fair use”, in reviews of their product, but without prejudice to their proprietorial rights, and the same appertains to all electronic images extracted from video, DVD or TV. Material which has been scanned in from published sources, whether or not out of print, remains under the copyright of their respective publisher. The Asher Archive recognises without reservation the legal title of these copyright owners. All the material collated here is conserved in the interest of film culture and history insofar as that specifically relates to childhood in the twentieth century. Images are used by the Archive in direct reviews, and in secondary thematic documents flowing from them. This we regard as “fair use” under the explicit provisions of the Act.

Frequently Asked Questions:

- Why are there so many duplicate stills in some sub-directories?
Duplicate stills are only kept where there is no clearly superior copy, or where they form part of a substantially different series from a separate source, or in the case of large, high resolution scans, to provide a more manageable still for inclusion in documents. Redundant duplicates are deleted.
- Why are there so many more boys than girls?
The primary reason is that there are simply very many more sources and websites available on boy actors than on girls. Also, it seems fair to say that cinema has produced rather more boy actors of name than girls, for reasons embedded in twentieth century culture. The Archive is attempting to correct that imbalance, without drifting into the lunatic realm of "positive discrimination".
- Why have you included so many stills which don't show children at all?
Because the Archive is very much more than a simple gallery of child images. It will include certain films that are highly relevant, but do not actually feature children at all, and others in which the children feature only in segments of the film. Obviously none of these images will be found in the biographical sections. Stills irrelevant to the Archive will not be found in it.
- Why are there huge directories for some unimportant titles, but scarcely any stills from several highly significant ones?
Pot luck. Film & TV websites tend to focus on very recent material to the exclusion of everything else, and many of them are profligate in the number of frame grabs – 100+ per title. Stills are added to the Archive on a continuous basis, as new sources and websites are discovered, but without any attempt to set an arbitrary limit per title. Major films which have yet to be reviewed – for reasons given elsewhere – may often be under-represented in the images section. A vast quantity of material currently held by the archive has yet to be scanned in. These omissions will be corrected in due course.
- Why isn't the entire archive made available on the web, for greater user convenience?
For a combination of reasons: Firstly size, the archive contains more and larger stills even than the largest extant commercial filmsites, and webspace becomes prohibitively expensive at that scale. Secondly redundancy, many of the stills in the archive were themselves downloaded from other sites. There is no need to make them available twice. Thirdly time constraints, the archive does not have the manpower to design and maintain such a huge website, updating it continuously. Fourthly, technical reasons. There seems no practical way of converting the thousands of formatted archive documents from MSWord into HTML, and placing the images onto the web without the archive reviews, biographical notes and thematic documents would be to defeat the object of the exercise. When these obstacles can be surmounted – funding, manpower, conversion to web-ready documents – the archive will be transferred wholesale to the web.

Sundry Videos / DVDs

A number of titles are released onto the video market which originated neither on television nor as commercial cinema releases. These include promotional tapes for young music artists, videos of children's martial arts tournaments, road safety items and general hobbyist material. Also included here are compilation tapes of short films by different producers. The children featured here will generally not be professional actors, and so will not be found in the biographical sections.

|---|---|
| 1 Aaron Carter – Private & Personal
1998 45-minute promotional video for ten-year old US pop soloist Aaron Carter 1 Aben. Papegojen og de Andre Bornesang
1998 compilation of 15 short Danish children's song videos 1 Amy
1993 compilation of short films from the Sundance Festival, including the title autobiographical documentary and a film about a Canadian indian family. 9 Ballet for Boys
1990 instructional video by Richard Glasstone. 1 Bom Bom Chip!
1992 video of the title Spanish singing kids group performing before a live audience of kids their own age (7-12). 4 Boxer Boys
2002 Russian video of three brothers (12-18) preparing for an amateur boxing tournament. 1 A Boy's Life
US compilation of three short features about homosexual boys and/or gay youth, including "DOTTIE GETS SPANKED" and "TREVOR". 2 Boys Life 2
1997 follow-up to the above – the word "boy" now stretched to mean any young gay at all. Four short films, one or other of which may have genuine relevance here. 2 Boys Life 3
2001 follow-up to the above – five films on gay youth which may or may not have a relevance (the US gay movement redefining boyhood homosexuality in terms of its own cultural values). 22 Extreme (1 – 9)
Series of South African boy wrestling videos. 1 The Fat Boy Chronicles
1994 non-commercial compilation of cinema clips used to illustrate an autobiographical theme – the trials of growing up gay and fat in America. 1 Fight Club
2000 video compiled from amateur US kids' boxing competitions – marketed by a company calling itself "Fighting Kids Productions"... 5 Films of Andrew Mason vol.1
1985 UK compilation of three amateur short features starring Andrew Mason, age 10/11. 2 Funfight
2000. Another set of (2) videos from "Fighting Kids Productions", this time showing boys how to roll about grappling on a lawn. Very instructive, no doubt. 3 Jordy
1992 promotional video for the 4-year old French singer of "Dur Dur Beine Bebe!" | 3 Judo Domination
2000. More low-angle shots of boys in pyjamas wrestling on mats, from "Fighting Kids Productions" (2 volumes). 3 Judo Fun
2000. And, ah, more of the same, from the same source. 3 Karate (Aldoraïne)
2002. More boys in pyjamas. This time kicking each other. From "Fighting Kids Productions". 13 Little Dolphins
Russian video on boy swimmers, possibly a TV documentary, but then again possibly not. Released by Baikal Films. 1 Living Deadbeats
Pop video 1 Romanian Mountain Getaway
From Baikal Films. 1 Sauna Boys
From Baikal Films. Russian boys do seem to get undressed a lot, don't they! 1 Siberian Scout Adventure
More from Baikal Films 1 Sleepover Swimmers
2003 Russian video – as "Little Dolphins" above – for students of boys in swimming outfits. Released by Baikal Films. 1 Soccer Boys
From Baikal Films 20 Vi Rar Vel Til Loftarasa
Icelandic pop video featuring two boys (±13 – actors unidentified) during a soccer match. Their goal celebrations develop into steamy clinches and French kissing on the pitch, which is broken up in the interests of the so-called "beautiful game". |
